

Rebecca Davis (SBN 271662)
rebecca@lozeaudrury.com
LOZEAU DRURY LLP
1939 Harrison Street, Suite 150
Oakland, CA 94612
Telephone: (510) 836-4200
Facsimile: (510) 836-4205

Patrick H. Peluso*
ppeluso@woodrowpeluso.com
WOODROW & PELUSO, LLC
3900 East Mexico Avenue, Suite 300
Denver, CO 80210
Telephone: (720) 213-0676
Facsimile: (303) 927-0809

Pro Hac Vice*

Attorneys for Plaintiff and the alleged Class

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE EASTERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

ADRIAN SCOTT RANDES,
individually and on behalf of all others
similarly situated,

Plaintiff,

V.

MR. COOPER GROUP, INC., a
Delaware corporation, and
NATIONSTAR MORTGAGE, LLC,
d/b/a MR. COOPER, a Delaware limited liability, company,

Defendants.

Case No. 1:24-cv-177-KES-SKO

PLAINTIFF'S RESPONSE IN OPPOSITION TO
DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO TRANSFER (Dkt. 15)

INTRODUCTION

This case challenges Mr. Cooper’s violations of the California Consumer Privacy Act, Cal. Civ. Code § 1798.100, et seq. (“CCPA”) in relation to a massive data breach that affected its network in late 2023. Rather than answer for its unlawful conduct, Mr. Cooper moves to transfer the case to Texas.

Specifically, Mr. Cooper posits that the action would be more convenient, less costly, and better serve the interests of justice if it were transferred to Texas and consolidated with a case that does not even involve a CCPA claim. Fortunately for Plaintiff, an examination of the relevant factors reveals that a transfer would do little more than shift any potential inconvenience from Mr. Cooper to Plaintiff and the Class, all of whom reside in California. Ultimately, a majority of the factors weigh against transfer. The Court should deny the motion.

Mr. Cooper also makes a related, though separate, argument to transfer this case to Texas as a function of the “first-to-file” rule. But transfer under the first-to-file doctrine, which is a discretionary matter, is inappropriate here. As an initial matter, there is no overlap. Though the Cabezas Complaint features eight (8) separate causes of action, none of them are for violations of the CCPA. (See Cabezas Complaint, attached hereto as Exhibit A.) So while Mr. Cooper incorrectly warns that “if this case is not transferred, putative class members would face the risk of having similar legal claims, arising from the same events, against the same defendant, proceeding simultaneously in two different courts, creating the risk of conflicting and different rulings” (dkt. 15-1 at 3), in reality there is no such risk. Cabezas simply does not involve a CCPA claim, nor do (to the best of Plaintiff’s knowledge) any of the other cases which have been consolidated with Cabezas. Indeed, so far as Plaintiff is aware, this case is the first filed CCPA case against Mr. Cooper in relation to the 2023 breach.

1 Plaintiff has already filed a Motion for Class Certification (Dkt. 9) and is 2 eager to aggressively litigate, in California, this case featuring a single count under 3 a California statute on behalf of a Class comprised solely of California residents.
4 There is no good reason why this case and the Class's claim for statutory damages
5 under the CCPA should be transferred to Texas and consolidated with cases that do
6 not involve CCPA claims. Accordingly, the Court should deny Defendant's motion
7 and permit the present matter to proceed in the Eastern District of California.

8 BACKGROUND

9 Mr. Cooper (which was known as Nationstar Mortgage until 2017) is a 10 mortgage lending and loan servicing company. Randles is a Los Banos, California 11 resident who has a mortgage loan which, at some time prior to the data breach, was 12 transferred to and serviced by Mr. Cooper. (See Dkt. 1 at ¶¶ 23–24.) While 13 servicing his loan, Mr. Cooper collected sensitive personal information about 14 Randles, including his full name, address, bank account information, and social 15 security number. (Id. at ¶ 25.)

16 Little did Randles know, Mr. Cooper was leaving his information exposed to 17 hackers. That is, on or around December 16, 2023, Randles received a letter from 18 Mr. Cooper notifying him that his personal information was affected by a “data 19 security incident” at Mr. Cooper. (Id. at ¶ 26.) The letter specifically confirmed 20 that his name, address, phone number, and social security number were included in 21 the files impacted by the breach. (Id. at ¶ 27.)

22 Despite waiting until mid-December to notify its customers, Mr. Cooper has 23 revealed that its servers were hacked by cybercriminals in October 2023.¹ Mr.
24 Cooper admitted that the breach was extensive, resulting in the theft of “sensitive

25
26 ¹ Mortgage lender Mr. Cooper admits personal data of millions stolen in October cyberattack,
27 DELAWARE ONLINE, https://www.delawareonline.com/story/news/crime/2023/12/21/mortgage-
28 company-mr-cooper-hack-class-action-lawsuit/71983257007/ (last visited Feb. 5, 2024.)

1 information belonging to nearly 15 million current and former customers and 2 applicants.” (Dkt. 1 at ¶ 3.)

3 Mr. Cooper’s investigation revealed that there was “unauthorized access to 4 certain of [its] systems between October 30, 2023 and November 1, 2023,” during 5 which time files containing personal information were exfiltrated and “obtained by 6 an unauthorized party.”²

7 Under the CCPA:

8 Any consumer whose nonencrypted and nonredacted personal 9 information as defined in subparagraph (A) of paragraph (1) of 10 subdivision (d) of Section 1798.81.5, or whose email address in 11 combination with a password or security question and answer that 12 would permit access to the account, is subject to an unauthorized
13 access and exfiltration, theft, or disclosure as a result of a business’s
14 violation of the duty to implement and maintain reasonable security
15 procedures and practices appropriate to the nature of the information 16 to protect the personal information may institute a civil action for any 17 of the following:

18 (A) To recover damages in an amount not less than one hundred
19 dollars ($100) and not greater than seven hundred and fifty ($750)
20 per consumer per incident or actual damages, whichever is greater.
21 (B) Injunctive or declaratory relief.
22 (C) Any other relief the court deems proper.

23 CAL. CIV. CODE § 1798.150. The type of information contained in subparagraph
24 (A) of paragraph (1) of subdivision (d) of Section 1798.81.5 (and thus the subject 25 of this law), includes, among other things, social security numbers.

26 ² Mortgage giant Mr. Cooper hit with cyberattack possibly affecting more than 14 million
27 customers, ABC News, <https://abcnews.go.com/Politics/mortgage-giant-mr-cooper-hit-cyberattack-possibly-affecting/story?id=105745061> (last visited Feb. 5, 2024).

1 Randles alleges that his nonencrypted and nonredacted social security
2 number was exfiltrated from Mr. Cooper’s network at the time of the breach—his 3 account number and security access code were likely exfiltrated as well. (Dkt. 1 at 4 ¶ 37.) Plaintiff alleges that this unauthorized access and exfiltration, theft, or 5 disclosure is a direct result of Mr. Cooper’s violation of its duty to implement and 6 maintain reasonable security procedures and practices. (Id. at ¶ 38.) Randles
7 further alleges that Mr. Cooper did not utilize reasonable security procedures or 8 practices for protecting and monitoring sensitive information, including but not 9 limited to encrypting sensitive information, limiting access to servers containing 10 customer personal information, maintaining a secure firewall, monitoring for 11 suspicious, irregular, or unknown traffic, users, or activity within its servers, and 12 assessing vulnerabilities in its system. (Id. at ¶ 42.)

13 On February 27, 2024, Plaintiff filed a Motion for Class Certification, 14 seeking to certify a Class defined as “All persons residing in California whose 15 nonredacted and nonecrypted personal information was compromised in the data
16 breach(es) affecting Mr. Cooper’s network(s) in 2023”. (Dkt. 9-1 at 2.) Plaintiff, on 17 behalf of himself and the Class seeks: (1) injunctive relief in the form of an order
18 enjoining Defendants from continuing to fail to implement reasonable procedures
19 to protect Plaintiff’s and the Class’s personal information, and (2) statutory 20 damages in an amount not less than one hundred dollars ($100) and not greater 21 than seven hundred and fifty ($750) per consumer per incident, attorneys’ fees and 22 costs, and any other relief the Court deems proper. (Dkt. 1 at ¶ 48.)

23 ARGUMENT

24 A. The Ninth Circuit’s Eight-Factor Test Under Section 1404 Weighs 25 Against Transfer.

26 Mr. Cooper first claims that the Court should transfer this case to the 27 Northern District of Texas pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1404. (Def. Mot. at 5-13.) In 28

1 reality, the 1404 factors weigh against a transfer and transferring the case would do
2 little more than shift any potential burden of litigating that Mr. Cooper may face to 3 Plaintiff and the Class.

4 In the interest of justice, district courts may transfer a civil action ““to any 5 other district or division where it might have been brought’ for the convenience of 6 the parties and of the witnesses.” Ponomarenko v. Shapiro, 287 F. Supp. 3d 816,
7 833 (N.D. Cal. 2018) (citing 28 U.S.C. § 1404(a)). In deciding whether to transfer
8 an action, courts consider the following eight Jones factors:

9 (1) the location where the relevant agreements were negotiated and 10 executed, (2) the state that is most familiar with the governing law, (3) 11 the plaintiff’s choice of forum, (4) the respective parties’ contacts with 12 the forum, (5) the contacts relating to the plaintiff’s cause of action in 13 the chosen forum, (6) the differences in the costs of litigation in the 14 two forums, (7) the availability of compulsory process to compel attendance of unwilling non-party witnesses, and (8) the ease of access to sources of proof.

15 Jones v. GNC Franchising, Inc., 211 F.3d 495, 498–99 (9th Cir. 2000). “No single 16 factor is dispositive, and a district court has broad discretion to adjudicate motions
17 for transfer on a case-by-case basis.” Ponomarenko v. Shapiro, 287 F. Supp. 3d 18 816, 833 (N.D. Cal. 2018) (citations omitted). “The burden is on the party seeking 19 transfer to show that when these factors are applied, the balance of convenience 20 clearly favors transfer.” Id.

21 Plaintiff takes each factor in turn.

22 1. The location where the agreements were negotiated or executed.

23 The first factor, which examines the location where the relevant agreements
24 were negotiated and executed, weighs against a transfer. Plaintiff and each member 25 of the alleged Class are California residents who negotiated and executed mortgage 26 loan agreements with Mr. Cooper (or agreements that Mr. Cooper subsequently 27 acquired from another lender) in California and in relation to California properties.

1 Plaintiff and the Class's relationship with Mr. Cooper has nothing to do with 2 Texas. Rather, they are California residents who purchased properties in 3 California, and in the process entrusted Mr. Cooper with their sensitive personal
4 information. See Davis v. Prop. & Cas. Ins. Co, 2005 WL 1694083 (D. Alaska July
5 14, 2005) ("[T]he insurance contract was negotiated and executed in Wisconsin.")

6 2. California courts are more familiar with California statutes than Texas courts are.

7 The second factor asks which state is most familiar with the governing law.
8 As this case involves a single claim under the CCPA, this factor weighs heavily 9 against transferring the case to Texas. See Lum v. Scitor Corp., 2010 WL 1460314, 10 at *2 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 9, 2010) ("While there is no question that the EDVA can 11 interpret California law, courts within this district obviously are more familiar with 12 California's statutory scheme than courts in another jurisdiction."). The same is 13 true here. While a judge in Texas is capable of interpreting a California statute, it
14 cannot seriously be disputed that courts within the Eastern District of California 15 are more familiar with California statutes than a Texas court is.

16 3. Plaintiff's choice of forum is entitled to deference.

17 As to the third factor, Mr. Cooper incorrectly claims that "Plaintiff's choice 18 of forum should be given little to no weight." (Def. Mot. at 13.) While it is true that 19 the choice of forum is given "less weight" in the context of class claims, such 20 weight is typically only reduced where this is evidence of forum shopping. See 21 *Roling v. E*Trade Sec., LLC*, 756 F. Supp. 2d 1179, 1185 (N.D. Cal. 2010) ("the 22 reduced weight on plaintiff's choice of forum in class actions serves as a guard
23 against the dangers of forum shopping, especially when a representative plaintiff
24 does not reside within the district."); see also Royal Queentex Enters. v. Sara Lee
25 Corp., No. C 99-04787, 2000 WL 246599, at *3 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 1, 2000); Senne
26 v. Kansas City Royals Baseball Corp., 105 F. Supp. 3d 981, 1059 (N.D. Cal. 2015).

1 There is no evidence whatsoever that Plaintiff has engaged in forum
2 shopping here. To the contrary, Plaintiff is a California resident seeking to 3 represent a Class of other California residents to recover under a California statute.
4 As such, a considerable portion of the operative facts occurred in this District, and 5 there is nothing unfair or unreasonable about Mr. Cooper being required to answer
6 for harms it caused to California residents under a California law in a California
7 court. This factor thus weighs against transfer.

8 4. The respective parties' contacts with the forum.

9 The fourth factor, which looks to the respective parties' contacts with the 10 forum, also weighs against a transfer. Plaintiff and the members of the alleged 11 Class are all residents of California with no ties to Texas. Mr. Cooper, on the other 12 hand, conducts extensive business in California and services mortgage loans for 13 properties in California. Mr. Cooper's choice to solicit business in California 14 constitutes sufficient contacts to render the forum convenient. See, e.g., In re 15 Ferrero Litig., 768 F. Supp. 2d 1074, 1080 (S.D. Cal. 2011) (finding that the 16 Defendant's sale of its products nationwide establishes "general contacts with the 17 forum" and therefore "it is reasonable to assume that this forum is convenient.").

18 5. The contacts relating to Plaintiff's cause of action.

19 While Mr. Cooper cites the location of its technology and operations as a 20 basis for finding the contacts relate closely to Texas, it pays short shrift to the fact 21 that each Class member is in California and that Mr. Cooper's relationship with 22 each Class member involves contracts that Mr. Cooper entered into with California
23 residents to service mortgage loans for California properties. Hence, this factor 24 also weighs against a transfer, or is at least neutral.

25 6. The differences in the costs of litigation in the two forums.

26 The reality is that a transfer would only shift any potential cost burden from 27
28

1 Mr. Cooper to Plaintiff and the Class.

2 Typically, “courts disfavor transferring venue when litigation costs are not
3 significantly reduced.” Ahead, LLC v. KASC, Inc., No. C13-0187JLR, 2013 WL
4 1747765, at *12 (W.D. Wash. Apr. 23, 2013). Additionally, “[c]ourts do not order 5 venue transfers when doing so would simply ‘transfer the burden of litigation from 6 Defendant to Plaintiff.’” Vanvakaris v. Fashion Forms, Inc., No.
7 CV197765DMGJEMX, 2020 WL 5044470, at *3 (C.D. Cal. Apr. 29, 2020); see also Holliday v. Lifestyle Lift, Inc., No. C 09-4995 RS, 2010 WL 3910143, at *8
9 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 5, 2010) (“While it is of course true that litigation and trial in 10 California will burden the defendants, transfer would likely only displace this 11 burden—or, worse, impose a heavier one—onto plaintiff.”). Moreover,
12 “corporations are better-equipped than individuals to absorb increased litigation 13 costs.” In re Ferrero Litig., 768 F. Supp. 2d 1074, 1081 (S.D. Cal. 2011).

14 Here, Mr. Cooper fails to identify any costs that would be significantly 15 reduced. Instead, Mr. Cooper merely recites the location of its technology, 16 witnesses, and documents. (Def. Mot. at 9.) But modern technology renders these 17 concerns virtually nonexistent. See O'Bannon v. Nat'l Collegiate Athletic Ass'n, 18 2009 WL 4899217, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Dec. 11, 2009) (“Defendants assert that most 19 of the relevant documents are located in or near the Southern District of Indiana.
20 The Court gives this argument little weight because modern technology has 21 significantly reduced the costs associated with the transfer of documents.”); C.H. Robinson Co. v. Glob. Fresh, Inc., No. CV 08-2002-PHX-SRB, 2009 WL 22 10673422, at *9 (D. Ariz. Mar. 20, 2009) (“modern communication methods, 23 electronic discovery and document production, and low-cost airfare between 24 southern California and Arizona should minimize litigation costs.”).

25 Moreover, given Plaintiff’s lead counsel’s location (Denver, Colorado), he 26
27
28

1 will be required to travel for any in-person depositions regardless of the forum.
2 Consequently, Plaintiff will agree to depose Mr. Cooper and all of its employees
3 and witnesses in Texas to decrease any potential burden. And to the extent that 4 inspections of Mr. Cooper's technology are necessary, those inspections can be 5 readily completed wherever the system(s) may be located. Finally, though Mr.
6 Cooper complains that its witnesses would need to travel to California for trial if 7 the case is not transferred, Plaintiff would need to travel to Texas for trial if the 8 case is transferred. Put simply, Mr. Cooper's motion does little more than seek to 9 transfer the litigation burden from itself to Plaintiff.

10 In the end, “a defendant seeking transfer must ‘make a strong showing of 11 inconvenience to warrant upsetting the plaintiff’s choice of forum.’” Zilveti v.
12 Glob. Mktg. Rsch. Servs., Inc., No. C-15-2494 MMC, 2016 WL 613010, at *2
13 (N.D. Cal. Feb. 16, 2016). Mr. Cooper has failed to make any such showing. Thus,
14 this factor weighs against transfer.

15 7. The availability of compulsory process to compel 16 attendance of unwilling non-party witnesses.

17 The seventh factor also weighs against a transfer, or at least is neutral. Mr.
18 Cooper has not identified any non-party witnesses it wishes to compel attendance
19 and who reside in Texas. Indeed, “[t]o demonstrate inconvenience of witnesses, 20 the moving party must identify relevant witnesses, state their location and describe 21 their testimony and its relevance.” Carolina Cas. Co. v. Data Broad. Corp., 158 F.
22 Supp. 2d 1044, 1049 (N.D. Cal. 2001); see also Pinnacle Fitness & Recreation
23 Mgmt., LLC v. Jerry & Vickie Moyes Fam. Tr., No. 08-CV-1368 W (POR), 2009
24 WL 10664872, at *9 (S.D. Cal. Sept. 8, 2009) (“to establish inconvenience of 25 witnesses, Moyes Trust must not only state the name of witnesses, but their 26 location, and explain the substance of their testimony and its relevance.”).

27 Even if Mr. Cooper could identify any potential witnesses, this does not pose 28

1 a serious problem. The parties can easily depose any hypothetical witnesses within 2 100 miles of their residence and then offer the deposition testimony at trial. See
3 Nortek Prod. (Taichang) Ltd. v. FAIP N. Am., Inc., No. C-10-0810 MMC, 2010
4 WL 1838934, at *3 (N.D. Cal. May 4, 2010) (“[Defendant] does not contend that 5 any such non-party witness would refuse to testify at a trial in California, nor does 6 [defendant] explain why any such witness’s testimony could not be taken at a 7 deposition and offered at trial.” (citing Fed. R. Civ. P. 32(a))); see also C.H.
8 Robinson Co. v. Glob. Fresh, Inc., No. CV 08-2002-PHX-SRB, 2009 WL
9 10673422, at *9 (D. Ariz. Mar. 20, 2009) (“the Court’s lack of subpoena power 10 can be solved through the use of deposition testimony or video conference.”).

11 Because Mr. Cooper has not identified a single witness whose testimony 12 may be unable to be compelled, this factor weighs against a transfer.

13 8. The ease of access to sources of proof.

14 Lastly, “[t]he location of evidence may be an important factor in a 15 convenience and fairness analysis.” *Martin v. Glob. Tel*Link Corp.*, 2015 WL 16 2124379, at *5 (N.D. Cal. May 6, 2015) (citation omitted). “However, this factor is 17 neutral or carries only minimal weight when the evidence is in electronic form.” Id.
18 (citing Sarinara v. DS Waters of Am. Inc., No. C-13-0905 EMC, 2013 WL
19 3456687, at *2 (N.D. Cal. July 9, 2013); Friends of Scot., Inc. v. Carroll, No. C-20 12-1255 WHA, 2013 WL 1192956, at *3 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 22, 2013)).

21 In this case, there is likely to be no difference in the access to sources of 22 proof. The bulk of responsive documents will undoubtedly be in electronic form.
23 Consequently, the transfer of most, if not all, discovery documents will take place
24 via email or by electronic file transfer. Even for those few pieces of evidence that 25 are not in electronic form, the parties can work to conduct any potential
26 inspection(s) of any physical evidence wherever it may be located. This factor
27
28

1 argues against transfer or is neutral.

2 9. The Public Interest Weighs Against Transfer.

3 As a final consideration, the Eastern District of California has a strong
4 interest in protecting California citizens from conduct that is unlawful under a 5 California privacy statute. See Smith v. Nerium Int'l, LLC, No.
6 SACV1801088JVSPLAX, 2019 WL 3110027, at *8 (C.D. Cal. Apr. 3, 2019)
7 (“California has an interest in protecting its citizens from the alleged harm”);
8 Samson Tug & Barge Co. v. Koziol, 869 F. Supp. 2d 1001, 1019 (D. Alaska 2012)
9 (“This court finds that Alaska’s interest in protecting its citizens from fraud and 10 misrepresentation.”); Walker v. Los Angeles Cty., No. 08-0878-PHX-JAT, 2008
11 WL 4447011, at *8 (D. Ariz. Oct. 1, 2008) (“Plaintiff correctly notes that Arizona 12 has an interest in protecting its citizens.”). Texas, on the other hand, has no interest
13 in protecting California citizens. This, too, weighs against a transfer.

14 B. The First-to-File Doctrine

15 As an alternative argument, Mr. Cooper argues that the case should be 16 transferred to the Northern District of Texas under the first-to-file rule. (Dkt. 15-1, 17 13-16.) The “first-to-file” rule is a doctrine of federal comity that “permits” a 18 district court to decline jurisdiction over an action if “a complaint involving the 19 same parties and issues has already been filed in another district.” Pacesetter
20 Systems, Inc. v. Medtronic, Inc., 678 F.2d 93, 94–95 (9th Cir. 1982); Adoma v.
21 Univ. of Phoenix, Inc., 711 F. Supp. 2d 1142, 1146 (E.D. Cal. 2010) (quoting 22 Pacesetter). “The most basic aspect of the first-to-file rule is that it is discretionary 23 . . .” Alltrade, Inc. v. Uniweld Product, Inc., 946 F.2d 622 (9th Cir. 1991). Courts 24 may choose to dispense with the rule for reasons of equity: it is “not a rigid or 25 inflexible rule to be mechanically applied”. Id.; Pacesetter, 678 F.2d at 95.

26

27

28

1 The three factors analyzed when considering application of the first-to-file
2 principle are: (1) the chronology of the actions; (2) similarity of the parties; and (3)
3 similarity of the issues. Bashiri v. Sadler, No. CV 07-2268-PHX-JAT, 2008 WL
4 2561910, at *1 (D. Ariz. June 25, 2008); Adoma, 711 F. Supp. 2d at 1146 (citing 5 Alltrade, 946 F.2d at 625–26).

6 With regard to the first factor, chronology, Plaintiff does not dispute that 7 Cabezas was filed first. However, this makes little difference, as discussed more
8 fully below, since Cabezas does not involve a CCPA claim. (See Ex. A.)

9 The second factor, similarity of parties, weighs in Plaintiff’s favor. While 10 this factor does not require strict identity, the parties must be “substantially 11 similar.” Adoma, 711 F. Supp. 2d, at 1147. In traditional cases, this standard 12 prevents parties from unnecessarily adding a party to a case arising from the same 13 transaction in order to defeat similarity. See Bashiri, 2008 WL 2561910, at *2. In 14 class actions, however, the analysis changes—it is the classes, rather than the 15 named representatives, that are compared. Adoma, 711 F. Supp. 2d at 1147; Red v.
16 Unilever U.S., Inc., 2010 WL 11515197, at *4 (C.D. Cal. Jan. 25, 2010).

17 As a preliminary consideration, some courts have adopted the approach that 18 comparison of the classes is not appropriate until a class has been certified. See 19 Wallerstein v. Dole Fresh Vegetables, Inc., 967 F. Supp. 2d 1289, 1295 (N.D. Cal.
20 2013) (citing Lac Anh Le v. PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP, No. C-07-5476 MMC, 21 2008 WL 618938, at *1 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 4, 2008)); Hill v. Robert’s Am. Gourmet
22 Food, LLC, No. 13-cv-00696-YGR, 2013 WL 3476801, at *3 (N.D. Cal. July 10, 23 2013) (same). This standard recognizes the uncertainty of class membership and 24 the malleability of class definitions, which often change after appropriate
25 discovery. Under such an approach, Mr. Cooper’s motion would be premature—

26
27
28

1 and similarity would not be found—because class certification has not yet occurred
2 in either case (though Plaintiff again notes that he has moved for it).

3 The more widely-accepted approach is that proposed classes may be 4 compared for similarity before certification occurs. See, e.g., Adoma, 711 F. Supp.
5 2d at 1147–48; Hill, 2013 WL 3476801, at *3. However, even if compared now, 6 Plaintiff’s proposed Class is not substantially-similar to warrant transfer of his 7 case. The Class Plaintiff seeks to certify is narrowly-tailored to the question of 8 CCPA liability and is defined as “all persons residing in California whose 9 nonredacted and nonecrypted personal information was compromised in the data
10 breach(es) affecting Mr. Cooper’s network(s) in 2023.” Cabezas’s proposed 11 definition, on the other hand, is overly broad, vague, and not tailored to a CCPA 12 claim (likely because, again, a CCPA claim isn’t at issue in that case). There, the 13 proposed class definition is “all ascertainable persons impacted by the data breach, 14 including all who were sent a notice of the data breach.” (See Ex. A.) Though 15 there may be overlap, the proposed classes are not substantially similar.

16 The third factor, similarity of issues, is likewise not satisfied. Cabezas
17 pleads eight (8) separate claims for relief: (1) Negligence, (2) Negligence Per Se,
18 (3) Breach of Express Contract, (4) Breach of Implied Contract In Fact, (5)
19 Invasion of Privacy, (6) Unjust Enrichment, (7) Breach of Confidence, and (8)
20 Breach of Fiduciary Duty. (See Ex. A.) But not a claim for violating the California
21 Consumer Privacy Act, which is the only claim at issue in this case.

22 Indeed, to the best of Plaintiff’s knowledge his case is the first-filed CCPA
23 case. In fact, though Defendant states that three (3) cases involving California 24 plaintiffs have already been consolidated with Cabezas (Borge, Granados, and 25 LaPertche (dkt. 15-1 at 15)), none of those three cases brings CCPA claims, either.
26 (See Group Exhibit B, “Complaints in Borge, Granados, and LaPertche”) To the 27
28

1 extent Mr. Cooper argues that it is possible for an amended Complaint in Cabezas
2 to add a CCPA claim, such a hypothetical attempt would fail due to the CCPA's
3 pre-suit notice requirement:

4 The Court finds that Ranson failed to allege that he provided notice as 5 required by the California CPA. In analogous circumstances, courts
6 have held that the objective of a "pre-suit notice," such as the 7 requirement here, is "to allow the defendant an opportunity to cure the 8 defect outside of court." T & M Solar & Air Conditioning, Inc. v.
9 Lennox Int'l Inc., 83 F. Supp. 3d 855, 875 (N.D. Cal. 2015). The 30-day
10 notice required by the California CPA serves the same purpose. If a 11 notice filed before the 30-day deadline could be updated when an 12 amended complaint is filed and satisfy the 30-day notice requirement,
13 then having the pre-suit notice requirement would be pointless. Ranson 14 alleges that he gave notice on December 8, 2020, three days before filing his California CPA claim. (Doc. 41-1; see Doc. 30.) He cannot supplement the time between the notice and the initiation of the lawsuit by amending his complaint. Clearly, he failed to satisfy the 30-day notice requirement. The California CPA claim is dismissed with prejudice.

15 Griffey v. Magellan Health Inc., No. CV-20-01282-PHX-MTL, 2022 WL
16 1811165, at *6 (D. Ariz. June 2, 2022). Thus, this case would remain the operative
17 first-filed CCPA claim even if one of the Texas cases attempted to amend to add 18 the claim later.

19 At the end of the day, though it is true that each of these cases stems from 20 the same data breach incident, the claims do not overlap. This case involves a 21 single claim under the CCPA on behalf of a Class comprised solely of California
22 residents. On the other hand, Cabezas and the cases consolidated with it involve
23 various claims other than a CCPA claim and their proposed classes are not limited
24 to California residents. There simply is nothing inconsistent about letting this case 25 proceed independently in California on its CCPA claim while Cabezas proceeds on 26
27

1 its nationwide common law claims. As a result, Mr. Cooper's motion should be 2 denied.

3 CONCLUSION

4 Mr. Cooper's motion to transfer this case to the Northern District of Texas
5 should be denied. Plaintiff and the members of the Class are California residents
6 wishing to proceed in a California court in a case involving a single claim for Mr.
7 Cooper's violations of a California statute. There is no reason to send them to 8 Texas to be relegated to a subclass in a broader, more complicated, unrelated
9 nationwide case which only involves common law theories of liability. Plaintiff
10 has moved for class certification already and is ready, willing, and able to litigate
11 this case swiftly and aggressively at home in California. The Court should deny 12 Mr. Cooper's Motion to Transfer, grant Plaintiff's Motion for Class Certification, 13 and schedule a case management conference to discuss a notice plan for class 14 members and dates for discovery and summary judgment.

15 Respectfully submitted,

16 Dated: March 27, 2024

17 Adrian Scott Randles, individually and on 18 behalf of all others similarly situated,

19 By: /s/ Patrick H. Peluso
20 One of Plaintiff's Attorneys

21 Patrick H. Peluso*
22 ppeluso@woodrowpeluso.com
23 Woodrow & Peluso, LLC
24 3900 East Mexico Ave., Suite 300
25 Denver, Colorado 80210
26 Telephone: (720) 213-0676
27 Facsimile: (303) 927-0809
Attorneys for Plaintiff and the Class
* Pro Hac Vice

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I hereby certify that on March 27, 2024, a true and correct copy of the above papers was served upon counsel of record by filing such papers via the Court's CM/ECF system.

/s/ Patrick H. Peluso